LIQUOR VIOLATOR

FOUND GUILTY.

The Ripley Bee says:

The trial of Horace N. Gardner, of Union township, arrested the early part of this month, and charged with violation of liquor laws came up for hearing before Mayor Fee Tuesday afternoon at the auditorium. He is charged with two offenses, as follows: First, illegally having liquor in his possession; second, with illegally manufacturing liquor. He was tried Tuesday on the first charge, and was found guilty and fined $500 and costs. We understand the case will likely go to Court of Common Pleas on application for leave to file petition in error. Mayor Fee says Gardner, through his attorneys, agreed to pay fines and costs December 21st or 22nd.

Mrs. Frank Fusaner last night received a telegram from the war authorities at Brooklyn, N. Y., notifying her that the body of her soldier boy, Earl Fusaner, who gave his life for his country on a battlefield in France during the World War, had been started for its final resting place here. The remains will probably arrive at Ripley by the week end and announcement of the burial of the young soldier will be made. And all possible respect to his memory should be shown by our citizens.—Ripley Bee.

MORROW THINKS
NEW OFFICIALS WILL
RESTORE ORDERGovernor Expects New Officials at Newport to Restore Order at Steel Mills.

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 28. — Edwin P. Morrow, Governor of Kentucky, is pinning his faith for a solution of the Newport problem on the change of city and county administrations which will come with the first of the year. He holds the present city and county officials to blame for the lawlessness in Newport, and as proof that the uproar could be stopped points to the fact that from the time the soldiers appeared things quieted down.

To the governor the industrial dispute is a matter of secondary consideration. He said he trusts the men and their employers to arrive at a settlement, and promiscuous shooting and all other infractions of the law will be held in check until that time.

The Governor was working on his message to the Kentucky Legislature, which opens next Tuesday, when interviewed today by a representative of The Commercial Tribune. He said he had been keeping in close touch with the situation by telephone and otherwise and had become more and more convinced that the responsibility for the disorder lay with the city and county officials whose duty it was to see that order and peace were maintained.

Governor Morrow said he was powerless to remove from office those who had violated their sworn duty. He indicated that this would have been his course if his hands had not been tied. "Kentucky has no ouster law, such as exists in Ohio and Indiana," he said. "I have never known this law to be abused by the Governor of any state in which it exists. But without it what can be done? The whole of that power, in Kentucky, lies with the grand jury, which can indict for malfeasance in office, and then it is a matter for the courts."

"And if the trial jury fails to convict, then what?" he was asked. "About the only remedy is to wait for another grand jury and another trial."

NEW LEAF FLOOR RUSHED.

Lexington is to have another loose leaf warehouse. The lot on the north side of Manchester street, adjoining the Old Tarr distillery, which was recently purchased from Joseph Wolf, of Chicago, is the site of the new floor, which is to be 200 by 300 feet in size, according to the plans.

Ground was broken Wednesday and it is planned to have the building ready in several days to receive leaf. During the season it will be used as an independent loose leaf tobacco warehouse, and after the season is over it will be utilized as a storage plant for hoghead tobacco. Approximately 40 men were placed at work on the site by the Lexington Building & Supply Company. The building is being constructed of wood protected by metal. The capacity is to be about 200,000 pounds. It is understood that Thomas C. Geary and associates are making negotiations for the lease.—Lexington Herald.

FARM CROP VALUES
SHOW BIG DECLINEValues of Farm Crops in America this Year Are Three Billion Less Than Last Year.

Washington, Dec. 28. — The important farm crops of the United States this year were valued at $5,675,877,000 today by the Department of Agriculture in its final estimates of the year. That is almost $3,400,000,000 less than last year's crops were worth and $8,000,000,000 less than the crops of two years ago, when high prices prevailed for farm products. The values are based on prices paid to farm on December 1, and the crops comprise about 90 per cent. of the value of all farm crops.

There were only two billion-dollar crops this year—corn and hay—while last year four crops were valued at a billion dollars or more. Production was below last year for almost every crop, although the acreage of the important crops, with the exception of cotton, was slightly larger.

The area devoted to the important crops this year was 349,336,000 acres, compared with 349,087,000 acres last year.

BRACKEN COUNTIAN FOUND HANGING IN
BARN ON HIS FARMEd B. Perkins Found By Neighbors on His Farm Near Brooksville—
Supposed to Have Committed Suicide.

The Bracken County Review says:

Saturday morning of last week the people of this community were shocked at the news of the discovery of the lifeless body of Ed B. Perkins, hanging in his barn.

Mr. Perkins lived on what is known as the old Asa Day farm about a quarter of a mile below the bridge over Locust Creek on the Augusta pike.

Messrs. Clay Hamilton and Clarence Day, neighbors, who own farms adjoining and who reside on ridges above Mr. Perkins' home made the discovery. Meeting that morning they decided to go down to Ed's to see what damage, if any, the high waters were doing in the bottoms. Approaching the house they called to Ed when Clarence, recalling that he had not seen him the day before when he had passed through his place and delivered some mail, thought he might probably be sick, so they went in the house. From the house they went to the barn where, as stated before, the gruesome spectacle met their gaze.

He left nothing to indicate any reason for taking his own life. He was a single man and lived alone on his farm of 44 acres on which he was out of debt and had money in the bank. He was a cripple, having been so since childhood as a result of scrofula and white-swellings. He suffered periodical attacks from these but never complained to friends, who could tell he was suffering only by his languid mood.

The last seen of Mr. Perkins before the discovery of his body was Wednesday night when he spent the evening until bedtime at the home of Mr. Chester Jordan. Mr. Jordan and wife say that he seemed in a normal condition, made no complaint whatever, and was in good spirits when he left their home about 9 o'clock. No neighbor recalls seeing him alive after he left the Jordan home.

JAILER BATTLES FOR LIFE WITH
THREE PRISONERSHenderson Jailer Battle for His Life
With Three Attempting to Escape Through Opened Jail Door.

Henderson, Ky., Dec. 28. — Battling for his life against three negroes, Jailer Rod Davis, aided by his wife, prevented the escape of one of the three livery at the Henderson county jail, after the evening meal last night.

Albert Smith ("Chicago") held for burglary in connection with the theft of many hundreds of dollars' worth of goods, it likely to die from a bullet wound through the back and into his lungs. Tom Smith ("Morganfield"), also held in connection with house-breaking, will probably recover from a beating with the butt of a pistol, that left his face unrecognizable under cuts and bruises. Walter Fuce, the third negro, is still at large.

Jailer Davis had just swung open the inner door of the jail, the outer door being open, to allow a negro trusty to carry away the plates. The three prisoners, all of whom are alleged "bad" men and average over 190 pound in weight, rushed the jailer, carrying him into a corner. Davis had his pistol in his hip pocket. As "Chicago" was reaching for the gun, he said: "There's be a new jailer here tomorrow."

Davis swung his right fist to the negro's jaw dropping him. Fuce slipped behind the jailer, but Davis grabbed his legs and threw him over his head.

Mr. James Seeley, who is a patient at the Deaconess hospital Cincinnati, is reported as holding his own, which is very good news to his many, many friends.
